

Greg D'Avignon
President and Chief Executive Officer
Business Council of British Columbia (BCBC)

Greg D'Avignon is the President and CEO of the Business Council of British Columbia, the non-partisan organization for business and collective voice of the 260 leading businesses, academic institutions and organizations in every key sector of BC's economy.

Through relevant public policy development and effective advocacy, BCBC works with business, governments, First Nations and other thought leaders to enable the circumstances for industry to confidently invest and the economy to achieve its full potential to the benefit of businesses, the province and Canada.

In his 25 year career, Mr. D'Avignon has served in senior private sector, government and not for profit leadership positions, most recently as the President of Canada's National Brewers. He previously served the Prime Minister of Canada, and the federal Ministers of National Defence and Justice.

Greg is the current Chair of the BC Cancer Foundation, the province's largest cancer research funder and a member of the Board of the YMCA of Greater Vancouver. He also serves on the Board of the Premier's Aboriginal Business Investment Council and on several community, athletic, corporate and not-for-profit organization boards. Greg was previously Chair of the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation-BC/Yukon Region and on the National Board.

In 2013 in recognition of his work in business and the community at large, Greg received the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal.
